RUSSIAN CENSORSHIP. How the Czar Provides That Sothing Of femilye Be Published.

The censorship for all publications is composed of two courts—the Censure Committee and the Press Department In addition to these two there existed at this period a third division for "press consure" organized by the notorious Third Section, where the chief of the gendarmerie reigned supreme. At present this Third Section has been transformed into a department of the State police, and consequently the whole censorship is confined to the Ministry of the Interior There exists besides the the Interior There exists besides these an ecclesiastical censorship for all works touching upon religion, and one of the Ministry of Public Instruction, that deals with all books or periodicals intended for young persons. Every publication, whether book or periodical must undergo either "preliminary" or "subsequent" censorship. Those subjected to "preliminary" censorship are dealt with in manuscript, and the printed text must in no wise differ from printed text must in no wise this corrected manuscript, coften, cut this corrected manuscript, coften, cut down wholesale and utterly spoiled by the censor With regard to publica-tions exempted from this conjorship, once printed they are presented to the Censure Committee, but the permission to set them in circulation is only granted after the expiration of seven days for books and of four days for periodicals, provided that during this period the consor has not entered any objection This formality complied with, the book Press Department, who exercises superior control If all the censors think the publication of a book or periodical is damaging or disagreeable to the Government, the printed copies are sequestered or, according to circumstances, other step taken In addition to the administrativ me isures, the censorship, through the medium of the procureur, can summon tation. author or editor before the tribunal and the administration (the "head police,") and can expel them from the cipital or have them deported in order to place these "disturbers of the peace" under surveillance of the police. It ire quently happens that an author acqui ted by the tribunal is deported by in darmerie. I could cite numbers of cises showing the relations between the autimistration and the men of letters But I believe that one little adventure that took place at St Petersburg will suffice as evidence what law and justice one in Russia when the press is conceined One M Konkol Jasnopolsky was the proprietor of a printing office One inc. morning he received a visit from General Achebikine commissioned to examine all printing stocks in the capital. In is given out that Secretaries Manning and Whitney will spend the next month in New York. It is probably only a singular coincidence that there is to be a very important campaign in that state this fall, but how the Democratic papers would have howled if such a singular coin cidence had occurred during a Republican administration so closely allied to New York politics.

They have no words of commendation for his loyalty, his bravery, his skill in civil as well as mulitary affairs-all they can see in him to praise is the simple fact that he let them off without

New York Herald General Grant discovered the American Republic. We had dreamed of the grandour of republicanism before, but he revealed to us its compotence. Under his leadership we learned our mettle. We are grateful to him and proud of him, not more for what he did for us than for what, by the inspiration of his genius, he made us do for ourselves. He believed in the people, and after years of bloody war the people believed in themselves. The future, then, is safe, though Cirant is dead. But the teacher of a Nation will not be forgotten till the Nation itself crumbles.

THE books of all the Collectors of Internal Revenue have been balanced up to June 30, 1885, and the money has been counted. There is not a cent missing on the settlement. It should be understood that the Republican Collectors all held office till the close of the fiscal year, or so near to that period that their Democratic encossors had no time to embezzle anything.

AT CAMP GRANT,

Streams of Visitors Still Visiting the Last Resting Place of

The City Hall, Where He Lay in State, An Object of Interest-Vandahsm at the Tomb.

The Question of Where the Site of the Monument Shall Be Under Discussion.

Life at Camp Grant, NEW YORK, August 12 .- A trumpeter stepped out on the knoll on which Camp Grant has been established, at sunrise yesterday morning, and lustly bugled the reveille, as another soldier ran the flag up over the tomb of the dead general. A few moments later the entire camp was astir, and the oaken doors of the sepultures were thrown open, exposing to when the steel casket and the floral tributes about it. The guard was relieved and all was in readiness for the coming of the curious, they began to arrive in ones, twos and threes before the sun was very far risen from the horizon, and as the day grew older, increased in numbers, so that by noon a line of sight-seers, of whom the majority were women and a termed, in a very suggestive sense, large proportion atrangers, were passing the portals of the tomb as on yesterday. a case of a chicken coming home to Later in the day a floral anchor was placed among the other funeral pieces. The anchor was the tribute of a Southorn regiment, sent through the editor of a morning newspaper, who had forgotten to send the name of the regiment with the gift.
The City Hall was visited by hundreds of people, wholviewed with interest the dust covered draperies of the interior and surveyed the tastefully decorated exterior. Schuldt's bust of General Grant, which has been transferred from the rotunds to the Governor's room. came in for its share of attention, and is a striking feature of the room. Permission has been given by Colonel Grant to the artist who yesterday photographed the tomb and its contents to resain the negative, instead of destroying it Colonel Grant said to Janitor Klese of the City Hall on Saturday:

"Tell the photographer to send half a dozen copies of the picture to us at Mt. McGregor; then if he can make any money by so doing, he has my permission to sell as many copies as he chooses on his own account The canopy which was arranged over the casket while the body lay in state in this city has been thoroughly cleaned and placed in the fundertaker's warerooms, where scores of people inspect it.

Where the Monument Shall Stand. N: W YORK, August 12. - Mayor Grace, in conversation with a reporter this morning, said "The question-of where the exact site for the monument shall be will depend largely upon the style of structure to be orected, and the question of style will depend largely upon the amount of money contributed.

I am disappointed at the way contributions are coming in, and at the next meeting of the committee 1 shall endeaven to have some plan adopted for expediting the work Ex-Governon Cornett is also and will probably call a meeting of the excentive committee in a day or two "My idea is that as soon as we have some definite assurance as to the amount of money which will be raised, the Committee should begin work on the foundation for the monument Peoout of the insurance companies in actually begun than when the work is

Is is a somewhat suggestive fact ing the great care that has been taken to that wherever services were held in prevent damage to the exterior of Gourai Grant's tomb, sacrifegious visitors have succeeded in knocking off pieces of bricks of the corner of the vault as memeutees, and in defacing it by writing their names in pencil on the brick work. On dark nights, even with the precadtions which have been taken. It is feared that further lajury may be done, and in order to guard more securely against it, the Park Commissioners have decided to light the exterior of the tomb by electric

Maxwell Eastward Bound.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., August 12 .-Maxwell, the suspected murderer, spent Mouday night in one of the fron cells at the City Prison, which are locally known as tanks. He held a levee during the evening, every lady who had influence with the Chief of Police or the prison with the Chief of Police of the prison officials being admitted to the corridor facing the open door of Maxwell's cell. The prisoner maintained ac air of indifference, occasionally replying to questions in his peculiar broken French, but never ceasing to smoke. Several cigars were handed him, and these he seemed to prefer to the cigarettes which he constantly makes out of a brand of tobacco he has named so often as to lead to the suspicion that he may be a drammer for a Virginia firm

When the hands on the clock in the corridor pointed to 8 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the turnkey appeared at the door of the cell "Maxwell, they are waiting for you," he said, "pack up everything and come." Pocketing his literature and staking his "higgerhead" overcoat on his arm, the prisoner fol-lowed the guard into the prison of-fice, where Detectives Tracv and Badger, Chief Crowley, and Captain Lees were in waiting. At the outside door a large crowd had congregated, but pushing boat, which had many passengers, Maxwell was the center of attraction but seemed indifferent to the gaze of the public. When Oakland wharf wis reached with Officers Tracy and Badger he boarded the Southern Pacific train for St Louis, where the party will arrive on Sunday morning.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

Eleven Miners Killed and Several Injured By an Accumulation of Mune Gas.

The Accident Caused By the Breaking of the Fresh Air Fan-A Foolhardy Venture.

WITKESBARRE, Pr., August 12 -Relia thic information has just reached here that a terrible exposion of gas took place in the West End Coal Company's in incs yesterday morning at Mocanaqua, fifteen miles from here. As far as can be earned ten miners were instantly killed and several others dangerously injured. Further intelligence of the disaster says. "The fan engine that supplies fresh air to the West End Mice, at Mocanaqua, broke, depriving the miners of air four men have been brought to the surface dead, and four or five more are yet in the mine and can not be reached owing to the impute air.

Just belove the night shift went off of duty the fan broke. The boss knew of this and so did the men of the day shift before they entered the mine, but, notwithstanding this, they went into the mine, taking a great tisk. There were about thirty men in all, who were supplied with safety lamps, as it was well known that the gas would accumulate About seventy-five men were in the mine at the time when work began The workmen repairing the fan were the first who were overcome with gas and about an hour later the same fate happened to many more in the mine Before the men fairly realized the dauger more than twenty were unconscious.

Those who could then escape did so Superintendent John Teasdate and sev eral of his men became unconscious and were with difficulty rescued. Others went down, and in the face of immense difficulties, and in spite of being continu-ally overpowered with gas, got out all but ten men Three of those brought out were dead, and the other six are be yond doubt dead.

HE DEAD. The dead, as far as learned, are James Whalen, William Veneby, Peter Borottzsk, John Dilday and Hiram Mead. THE INJURED

Among those who are seriously over-come by the gas and badly injured are Burt Tromer, Thomas Hutchinson, John Andrews, John Teasdale, Jr, Henry Croop, John Kastby, William Good, Fred Howe and others whose names can not be learned at the prosent writing.

A DOOFOR OVERCOME. Dr. Hughes, a prominent physician of Hickshiney, went down into the mine to lajured men and was overcome by seas. He was rescued with difficulty, and was brought to the surface sonse

A QUEER OPERATION.

How a New York Man Managed a Jack Screw in His Mouth. A slender man of quiet and respectable appearance, sitting in a Sixth avenue devated train, last evening, drew from his inner coat pocket a narrow steel rod about six inches in length. The rod was flat and the width of an ordinary lead-pencil. At one end there was a small slot in it. So curious an implement and the preoccupied manner of the man attracted the attention of the other passengers in the car. A lady opposite, accompanied by a little boy, glanced with alarm toward the conductor, who was intently watching the worked his hand with a motion as if he were tightening up a loose nut on a bolt. The lady became so agitated that she left her seat and took one nearer "You needn't be, frightened, marm, said the conductor, "I guess that's only the circus man with the iron jaw." "What in the world's the matter with him?" asked the lady.

"I guess he is only tightening up his jaw, marm," replied the conductor, consolingly. The man had now finished the operation, and he restored the steel rod to his pocket. Then he took out a memoraadum-book and made some entries in it carefully, and, having finished these entries, he remarked to his neighbor in the adjoining seat, as he closed the "Science does remarkable things in "Now, I don't suppose you would have the least lidea that I had a jack-screw between two of my teeth." "A jack-screw?" inquired his neigh-

"Yes," returned the man, smiling.
"I'm undergoing a dental operation.
One of my teeth had been extracted, and one of those adjoining it began to grow over in the vac.int space. It was a good tooth, and I didn't want it pulled, but the dentist couldn't get it back to its place, until one day an idea struck him and he said he'd put a jackscrew in there. So he made one. It is ess than a quarter of an such long, but it is on the same principle as the other jack-screws—just like those used in lifting up Cooper Institute, only on a small scale, you see." "Is there no danger of its slipping out?"

"Oh, not at all, my dear sir. It is a very ingenious little contrivance. The whole thing is made of gold and the nut by which it is turned is next to the face; you saw me turn it just now? Well, I turn it once around every twenty-four hours, and that turn is equal to about a two bundred and fiftieth part of an inch. Then, you see, I make a memorandum of each turn. Generally I turn it twice a day, but only half-way round each time. I expect that it will take two or three weeks to straighten the tooth. "Is it uncomfortable? No, not especially. A little unpleasant when I am turning it. Makes me grit my teeth some, but I soon get used to having it there. The only objection is that gold is a little too soft a metal where there is so much pressure brought to bear. You see, the screw is a very slender wire and the thread on it is very delicate, though it focts as though the whole thing was a foct long and as big as those used under a building. A day or two after I began to use it the thread snapped under the strain. Then I thought there was a dynamite cartralgain my mouth and the whole top of my head was coming oil. Tim Fagan's Eccentricities in the Collec-"You talk of deputy sheriffs being always on the make," said an indignant member of that august body to a reporter, as he closed a bargain with a creditor. "Why, we are most of the time vietlms -- absolute victims-of the cunning and dupicity of people on the outside There, it was only the other day that I was badly bit myself. A fellow up town owed me an even hun-dred. He gave me a little palaver once or twice to stave off the collection, and took it all. But pretty soon I saw that he was on the beat and I went for him. It wasn't any good. He was a cute file-always out when I called-never to be caught napping, and he worried me to death, not on account of the money, but I haled to be played so

"Well, I made up my mind I'd make his life miserable anyhow, and I got hold of one of the fellows that loafs one he is if ever there was one. Tim says I, T've a hundred to collect from a man. Now, I want you to take the job. Stick to him through thick and thin. Don't let up, and I'll tell you what I'll do. If you can collect you can have half of the hundred.' "Away went Tim, and he stuck to that follow, he did. He was there morning, noon and night. It was no

MOHAMMEDANS IN INDIA

The Induence of the Mostems in the Man

As regards their influence in India there is much to be said, both good and bad. That the Mussulman faith is superior as an ethic institution to the Brahmanic belief may well be doubted. If the principles which govern the lives of the best Brahmans could be clearly and succinctly taught, they would be found to contain excellent elements of public morality. Unfortunately, however, Brahmanism is dressed and adorned with a multitude of symbolism and tawdry idolatry which only confuses the simple-minded and furnishes food for the sarcasms of the wise. The danger of symbolism is everywhere the The ignorant will always confound the symbol with the attributes of that God in whose honor symbols are

It is for this reason that Brahmanism, or Hinduism, by which I mean to signify the principal Brahmanic sects of worship now prevalent in India, has degenerated into the grossest idolatry as far as the mass of Hindus are con-cerned. Mohammadanism, on the othor hand, has maintained in a great measure its original faith in an invisible and supreme God. This is due to the extreme simplicity of the religion in it, beginnings, excluding as it does every kind of image worship by the prime prohibition. Thou shalt not make a graven image of anything having a soul." That is the way prophet worded his command, and it has been interpreted to mean every living thing. Mohammadan rulers have never even stamped their coins with portraits of themselves, but only with super-criptions and dates.

But the Hindu mind is naturally very imaginative and is not easily satisfied with any simple form of belief. The three hundredfold pantheon offers some especial attraction to each individual, and, as among the Egyptians of old, every man may carry his god in his pocket, without any particular disbe-shef in his neighbor's favorite deity, who may be quite as powerful, but is not so sympathetic to his own taste. On the whole, a Hmdu is more likely to turn atheist than to become a Mohammadau, and the conversion of Hindus to Chris tianity has been entirely insignificant. The only conversions of any historical importance were those of St. Francis Xavier, who made Christians of the in habitants of Goa, in Southern India, by a military process of persuasion now n longer employed in matters of religion.

The Mohammadans brought with them to India their faith, their strong, manly characteristics and their wonderful architecture, which has cutirely per-vaded the land. It is almost always possible to distinguish Mohammadans from Hindus at sight. They generally wear beards, whereas the Hindu is shaved, save for his mustache; they are more erect, more muscular and o bolder aspect; they wear their clothes differently, for all Mohammadans but ton their white linen garments or their cloth cuftains as we do-that is to say the left side is brought over the right-whereas all Hindus button the right side of their coats over the left. But wherever there are Mussulmans, there you will find their graceful minaerts and mosques, their domed sepulchers and solitary tombs, their light balconies and pointed doorways, contrasting with the heavy architecture of the Hindus.

There are to be found in private cwellings in Ahmedahad, a Mussulman city in the west of India, such specimens of beautiful design and exquisit workmanship as are hardly to be met with anywhere else. -F Marion Crau ford, in Has per's Magazine.

A Wonderful Fish. A correspondent of the San Francisco Examiner writes from Lake View, Ore. "A wonderful fish is becoming numerous in Goose Lake. It has the power to fill itself with air until it becomes very much like a round ball. Of evenings about sundown they may be seen playing on the surface of the water They will swell up by taking in the air, and the wind will blow them over the lake. They reflect all the colover the lake. They reflect all the col-ors of the rainbow, and when sporting over the lake are a grand sight. A hunter several weeks ago saw a crane swillow one of these lish when in its normal condition, but before the crane had got more than fifty feet up above the lake the fish had taken in enough air to explode the crane, which, at the sound of a report like that of a gun flewall to atoms, and the fish came lightly down on the water, no worse off 's a great curiosity, never having been found, I believe, in other waters.' The last statement is authentic.

THE average length of life is on the increase. The science of medicine has mad great progress; many diseases are not controlled that were formerly thought in curable. Etiquette at Home.

The politeness-books say that people ought to be even more polite in their own homes than in those of other people. One reason why so many people are cross and crabbed at home is, that the food they eat is badly cooked, and therefore indi-gestible. So with each meal they lay in a stock of dyspepsia, which makes them so savage that they have no chance to be be bappy.
